HOW-TO-SUCCEED-IN-ONLINE-HIGH-SCHOOL

1. Schedule your time. The comfort of "attending" school from home can be distracting if you're not disciplined about scheduling your time.
2. Shower and get dressed. It may seem like a simple thing, but getting prepared for class — including getting out of your pajamas and eating breakfast, can help put you in the right mindset for being attentive for your online and studies.
3. Get and stay organized. Thanks to technology, many apps are available to help you easily keep track of your assignments. Take advantage of them. Use them to set reminders of upcoming tests, homework deadlines and other activities.
4. Do some extracurricular activities. Round out your studies with extracurricular activities or internships.
5. Be an active participant in your learning. Don't hesitate to explore, explore, explore
6. Try something new. Get out of your comfort zone to try something unfamiliar. It will help you stretch.
7. Ask questions. It's up to you to make sure you're getting the answers you need.
8. Study in groups. Invite several of your classmates to a study group for your more challenging courses. Whether you meet virtually or in person, you can set up a regular time to assist each other.

Lake Sentani

Lake Sentani is a tropical, shallow, and at low-altitude open lake located at the northeast extremity of the Jayapura Regency in the Indonesian province of Papua, about 20 kilometres (12 mi) from the provincial capital, Jayapura City. It is located just to the south of the town of Sentani.

The lake, which is considered by the local population as the home of the rainbows, is part of the Cyclops Strict Nature Reserve and contains several endemic species of fish. In Lake Sentani rainbows are visible all the time.

Lake Sentani lies at the foot of the Mesozoic mafic and ultramafic rocks of the Cyclops ophiolite mountains in a fault-controlled depression at an elevation of 73 metres (240 ft) above sea level. With a surface area of 104 square kilometres (40 sq mi), Lake Sentani is the largest lake of the Intan Jaya region.

Lake Sentani receives its water primarily from direct precipitation with an average annual rainfall around the lake of about 2 metres (6.6 ft), and by mountain streams. The average evaporation on the lake is about 0.4 metres (1.3 ft) with seasonal variation in inflow. The lake outflows into the Jafuri and Tami rivers to the Pacific Ocean near the Papua New Guinea border.

Nyi Ageng Serang

Nyi Ageng Serang was born under the name Raden Ajeng Kustiyah Wulaningish Retno Edhi in Serang (40 kilometres (25 mi) north of Solo), in 1752. Her father was Pangeran Natapraja (also known as Panembahan Serang), a ruler of Serang and Pangeran Mangkubumi's war commander. She was also a descendant of Sunan Kalijaga.

She helped her father to fight against the Dutch colonial government, which attacked them because her father still maintained troops, in violation of the Treaty of Giyanti. After the battle, she was arrested and taken to Yogyakarta. Then, she was sent back to Serang.

At the beginning of Diponegoro War in 1825, 73-year-old Nyi Ageng Serang commanded the force on a stretcher to help Pangeran Diponegoro fighting the Dutch. During the war, she was accompanied by her son-in-law, Raden Mas Pak-pak. She also became a war advisor. She fought in several areas, including Purwodadi, Demak, Semarang, Juwana, Kudus, and Rembang. She was also assigned to defend the area of Prambanan from the Dutch. One of her best-known strategies was the use of lumbu (green taro leaves) for disguise. Her forces attached the lumbu to poles to look like a taro orchard. She stopped fighting after 3 years, although her son-in-law continued fighting.

She died in Yogyakarta in 1838. Her remains were buried in Beku, Kulon Progo, Yogyakarta.

Text for questions number 31 to 33.

Lemongrass is a tropical island plant in the grass family. Some species (particularly Cymbopogon citratus) are commonly cultivated as culinary and medicinal herbs because of their scent. It resembles that of lemons (Citrus limon).

Lemongrass grows to about 2 m and has magenta-colored base stems. It can grow in many tropical climates, most notably in Southeast Asia.

Lemongrass can be used for the production of citronella oil, which is used in soaps. It can also be used as an insect repellent (especially mosquitoes) in insect sprays and candles, and in aromatherapy. The principal chemical constituents of citronella, geraniol, and citronellol, are antiseptics, so they are used in household disinfectants and soaps.

Besides oil production, lemongrass is also used for culinary purposes, as a flavoring. It is a common ingredient in Thai cooking and can also be found in dishes from Indonesia, Sri Lanka, and India.

Text for questions number 38 and 39

Hail is precipitation (rain) of balls or pieces of ice with a diameter of 5 mm to more than 15 cm. In contrast, ice pellets (small hail) have a diameter less than 5 mm.

The formation of hail usually requires cumulonimbus or other convective clouds with strong updrafts. So, it often accompanies thunderstorms.

Large hailstones are often characterized by alternating layers of clear and opaque (not transparent) ice. It is caused by irregular rates of freezing. In areas where the temperature is not far below 0 °C (32 °F), freezing occurs slowly, allowing trapped air to escape and producing clear ice. When the hailstone then moves into a much colder area, freezing occurs quickly, trapping air and producing a layer of white ice.

Hail is extremely destructive to buildings and crops. If large enough, it may be dangerous to animals exposed to it. Hailstorms are most common in the midlatitudes and usually last around 15 minutes. They ordinarily occur in mid-to-late afternoon.
